It is part of popery and persists in the latest of the papal line as dant fruits if, in addition to liberty, she enjoyed the favor of the stolen goods is a dancing on quickamong his predecessors.*

In the first year of his reign, Leo published an encyclical letter "On the Evils Affecting Modern Society: are moving with every power at their command to capferred by Christ for the eternal welfare of nations." (11), the glory of Rome and the ruin of America.

In plain English, without frills or furbelows, the pope says that the chief evil of modern society was the act of the Italian people when they declared their political independence of the former pope, Pius IX, and established an Italian nation on the territory of the papal states. And the papal remedy for that evil is made plain in the following: (15).

The so-called Church of Rome is too inticular by this Our Letter those declarations and protests which Pius tent on accumulation of wealth and acquisition of power IX, of sacred memory, Our predecessor, on many and repeated occasions published against the seizing of the civil sovereignty and the infringement of rights belonging to the Roman church.

With these words Leo re-asserts the right of the papacy to rule in civil as well as spiritual affairs. Furthermore, he makes it clear that, in his belief, the restoration of the popes' temporal power is the essential remedy for the greatest evil affecting modern society.

And don't mistake the force and bearing of what a pope says in these official documents. When Leo says (304) "We hold upon this earth the place of God Almighty" and demands the restoration of his power as a temporal ruler, he expects every Roman Catholic on earth to support him in that claim; and every Roman Catholic, with sufficient intelligence to understand his own profession of faith, is bound to do it.

The Plain Truth About Papal Rome

The trouble with the "Holy Apostolic Roman Catholic Church" is that it is not holy, not apostolic, not Roman, not catholic, and not a church.

Only that can be called holy which is set apart for We cannot omit in the discharge of Our duty, which obliges Us to the service of God; a holy thing must be separate from to be called holy.

It is not apostolic; for its papal dictators and supreme authorities, in the past and in the present, in no wise represent the meek and lowly Carpenter of Nazareth Whose true apostles do His works.
